

Investment Summary

GIM's Discoveries Fund is a long-only U.S. equity strategy that has a focus on emerging and unrecognized small cap growth companies. Utilizing in-depth, bottom-up, fundamental research and analysis, our team of seven small cap specialists utilize networks and sector expertise to uncover compelling growth opportunities in all areas of the U.S. small cap market, including the innovative biotech and med-tech industries. The Discoveries PM employs company-specific valuation parameters to build a portfolio of +70 stocks of these well-positioned companies.

Fund Highlights

- We believe that enterprise growth drives a company's stock price over the long term, while changes in market sentiment can provide opportunity in the short term. The investment process – with its focus on stock selection – incorporates both to construct a portfolio positioned for long-term capital appreciation.
- GIM casts a wide net to identify companies with strong growth potential, including in areas that other growth managers may shun, such as the smaller emerging growth companies.
- LifeCycle diversification is integral to the process, from idea generation to portfolio construction. Every company of interest is placed into one of three LifeCycle categories – Core Growth, Pioneer and Special Situation -- each with distinct performance drivers. LifeCycle diversification helps to mitigate risk in the portfolio, and allows us to focus on stock selection as the primary means to add value for our clients.

Monthly Commentary

February got off to a strong start with the Russell 2000 Growth Index return reaching +9% before investor sentiment turned sharply negative as interest rates ticked up and evidence of rising inflation surfaced. However, the Russell 2000 Growth benchmark ended the month in positive territory with a +3.3% return. Corrections are normal and healthy for the markets, particularly after the strength witnessed over the last several months; and while the Fund has not been immune to this downturn, the Discoveries process allows us to take advantage of opportunities caused by price dislocations. In February, the US Small Cap Discoveries Fund nicely outperformed the benchmark in the period, returning +8.6%. While the Fund's bias toward the smaller end of the market cap spectrum was a positive, stock selection drove the outperformance. Performance was led by strong selection in technology and healthcare, and assisted by good selection in industrials, consumer discretionary, and utilities. The overweight position in healthcare offset some of the strong selection here, as did our underweighting in consumer discretionary, while the overweighting in utilities more than offset the good selection in this poor performing sector. The overweighting in industrials boosted relative performance. The lack of exposure to the energy, consumer staples, and telecommunications sectors was also a positive to performance. Materials was the only sector with negative selection. All three LifeCycles outperformed the overall benchmark return in the month with no one LifeCycle standing out. We continue to use our bottom-up processes to find and vet well-positioned companies with strong growth prospects across LifeCycles. We then invest in the stocks of these small/microcap companies risk/reward is attractive.
